THE ATTRACTION OF THE AMERICAN

Surprise at the prize-giving ceremony for the Nations' Cup Samsung Super League at La Baule: the Americans turned their backs, like one lone man (original for four women) to the public and to the officials during the ascent of their colours.

A very moving moment when they saw their flag being hoisted into the La Baule sky to the rhythm of their anthem. Among the Americans, the 'stars and stripes' is sacred.

Conquered, the French imitated the Americans and the La Baule public saw its first prize giving ... from the back. But isn't it said that the back of a person is the most secret and the most expressive part of their body ?
